PROPHETS WITHOUT HONOR.

Truly prophets are never heaped with honors in their own country. And the Conservative party in the role of a prophet has been hardly handled by some of these calamity howlers. To hear the Liberals an outsider with no knowledge of Canadian history would imagine that the Conservative party had never done anything for Canada except mis-govern and rup it. That sort of thing is very childish, and people nowadays are not be missed by it. They are thinking and judging for themselves. They are asking, for instance, which party founded the text of the control of Truly prophets are never heaped with honors in their ow markets, and a lot more policies and undertakings of infinite walue to all Canadians. True, the Conservatives at present are not leading in political arenas, but that does not necessarily con-demn them, nor does it mean that they are down and out for many long years to come.

The Liberals, before they indulge in condemning the Conservatives, should deal honestly with what their record shows. servatives, should deal honestly with what their record shows. They should sho be warry of probeelying their continued cellipse and bear in mind the warming of the Toronto Globe, as follows: "But the changes of the last few years are indications of the Party lines have been profoundly disturbed, the people will be apt to judge a public man by his individual contribution to public searches of the profoundly disturbed, the people will be service and knowledge rather than by his party label. There will be a disposition on the part of men who really think alike to get together, without regard to the party name and traditions, and thirm hyp roduce new alignments."

CRISP COMMENT

Hon. Mr. Ferguson has been pretty well badgered of late, on various political issues, by his opponents, and his determin-ation to fight back will win the admiration and support of his friends.

Fifteen thousand people were killed outright by autos in the United States in 1921. Add to this terrible number the lives lost on railroads and by industrial accidents and a total is presented that is bound to "stagger humanity."

Conservatives want to start a daily newspaper at Brock-ville. It doesn't cost much to want to, remarks the London Advertiser, but the money starts to fly when it passes that stage.

The company has fared badly, but should derive comfort from the fact that everything is coming down; and that the mere maintenance of the present rates, in view of prevailing tendencies, is something to be grateful for. The public certainby would not take kindly to a boost just now, even though it be for an "emergency". EXECUTION CENTRE.

There are good prespects that a reform which has been long and persistently urged, and favorably reported upon by those most completent to pronounce an opinion, will soon be realized in this province. Had such an intillution existed in the past, we tende of ceats. rate such an institution easier in the past, we might have been saved many distressing episodes. The excape of condemned men, the man-hunt which follows, the morbid interest aroused by the spectacular recaptures, the unwhole-some sentimentality which gathers around the place of his detention—these are things which the community should be spared, and would be spared if a proper place were set apart.

Hon. H. C. Nixon, provincial secretary, is strongly in favory of the project. He says no decision has yet been arrived at an law, is shown the suggested execution centre should be located, but its evident that a determined effort will be made in the forth coming session to pass the necessary legislation. #### WHISKEY AND U. S. CITIES

Prohibition in the large centres of the United States, if we are to believe some of the stories written for our edification by misinformed news writers, is conspicuous by its absence, de spite the passing of the Volstead Amendment. It is interesting therefore, to hear the other side of the story.

A pamphlet has recently been issued by the Board of Ten erance. Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Epis copal Church, Washington, D.C., entitled "How, Prohibition Works in American Cities."

These studies were prepared at various dates, and each study is based upon personal investigation and careful compilation of materials. In a "Foreword," Rev. William F. Mc-Dowell, resident Bishop of Washington, after reviewing the re-

The final answer to critics of the law and opponents of the law is that wherever prohibition is faithfully applied, wherever the law has a fair chance in the community, it works, and works to the benefit of the community.

to the beneat of the community.

One of the most striking studies was the former great whiskey centres, Louisville, Ky., and Peoria, Ill. Mr. Geo.
Welssinger Smith, Mayor of Louisville, writes that he is not a prohibilishist, but adds: "As an economic measure there can be no question of the beneficial results." Peoria was the greateat whiskey city in the world before prohibition. Il was to the cheap whiskey trade what Louisville was to the fine whiskey trade. Located in the centre of the corn belt, the 13 distilleries of Peoria and Pekin had a grinding capacity of 42,000 bushels of grain a day. In Pekin one of the big distilleries is now a yeast factory and the other is used for the manufacture of food products. To Peoris the distilleries were taken over by the United States Food Products Company, which spent about $5,000,000 in rejuvenating them, and now manufactures all kinds of food for man and-beast. Of the brewerles, one-now makes a mail extract, another syrups for sood soundains, and the third plants for homes and hotels.

The Executive Secretary of the Peoria Association of Com The Executive Secretary of the Peoria Association of Com-merce writes, list Peoria has not suffered since this marvellous change in industry, and that more men are employed and more money livovied than in the old days. "Often we receive let-ters," he adds, "from those who think Peoria received an adval-joil and that our business is stagnant. The opposite is true. I don't think there is any empty building in Peoria, and we need 500 to 1,000 reddences."

POST WAR WAGE ADJUSTMENT.

Workers in New England cotton mills, faced with a proworkers in New England cotton mills, Ideed with a pro-posed reduction in wage rates and a lengthenligk of the work-ing day from eight to nine hours, appear to be divided as to the action they should take. The majority, who are members of the United: Textile Workers of America, favor a strike, and some have quit their jobs. Some, however, are undecided, and some nave quitater poss. Some, notweet, are undercode, an some have respected to remain at work, at least for the present. The case distillustrative, says the Montreal Gazette. of that of many industries, not only on this continent, but in Great Britain. It is the natural sequel to the great increases in worker' pay during the war, a repetition of the experience that has followed cery great yar for more than a century. The rule is that in a national struggle everyhody gets big pay, except the soldier. During the last war this was illustrated in a way more notable than usual. Soldiers from this continent got their dollar a day and their keep and worked without regard to the clock or whether it was day or night. Those who, working in comfort at home, made material for the soldiers' use or served in tran porting it, had their wage increased in cases to a dollar an hou with higher reward if they put in more than eight hours a day boards have considered the protests of wage earners against reductions, and in some cases have modified employers' pro-positions. Neither law, or commissions, nor boards, however, can maintain wages when there is no sufficient consuming marcan maintain wages when three is no sufficient consuming mar-ket for what wages produce. The conditions are stronger that the organizations which would maintain war-time wages dur-ing a peace period. The heattainton of some of the New Textile workers to obey the call to strike is pushfied by conditions that cannot be altered by protests, or boards or commissions. Ever the strongest of the workers organizations, thoswith railway operation, have had to accept the le and submit to reduction of wages; and they will be fe if they are not called upon to repeat the experience. In few no cases, have the adjustments brought wages down to before no cases, have the adjustments brought wages do the war standards; and it is not, perhaps, desir the war standards; and it is not, perially, cearable, and tainly is not likely, that the old rates will be re-established. I worker has to bear, a share of the war cost, and does it in rent and lousehold bills, if not in income taxes. The exp since is Great Britain and recently in the United States:

DIRIGIBLE FATALITIES.

Yesterday's terrible catastrophe to the United States dirigible ainship "Roma" with its attendant loss of life brings home the fact that this is the third airship to be destroyed with a large death list in the last thirteen months. Air machines, despite the calks of the control of the contr eted with the aviation industry are yet in the process of de

THE GOVERNMENT MARINE.

THE GOVERNMENT MARINE.

As expected, the financial report of the Government Merchans Marine for 1921, shows an operating loss. The amount is 1,761,344, which consists of 3300,044 actual rouning deficit and 1861,300 for overhead, wharfage, etc. If depreciation is figured ju. 125 per cent., and 5 per cent. interest from money is charged on the favestment of approximately 370,000,000, the signal loss of about $3,000,000, asy the Mail and £, moire. That is a heavy deficit, but is relatively small compared with the same period. Comidering that the sixty shape keep playing the same period. Comidering that he sixty shape keep playing the same period. Comidering that was the sixty shape keep playing the same period. Be first shaping was laid up, the service to Canadian trade made up, largely, for the loss as shown on the Government records. Government records.

The Merchant Marine project has, however, been thrus

Into a new situation by the great rush of war and post-war building. The world now has 10,000,000 tons more of ships than before the war, and the volume of cargo is much less. Revival of trade will improve the shipping conditions, but for years there will be ample capacity available. The Government report indicates that net profits were made on the Australia-Vancouver route, and the India route, but there were heavy Vancouver, route, and, the India route, but there were beying looses on the British, Continental, West India and South America routes: "The passenger service to the West Indies was very unprofitable. Bearing in mind that 1921 shipping conditions were extremely abnormal, and not likely to be duplicated again in their demoralization, it may be that the Government Marine is attempting too extensive a competition with other well estable. lished lines. For instance, private tonnage gives as good a service to Britain as any shipper can expect. The C. P. R. has a large freighter fleet operating to British ports, and British vessels are now instantly available. The main purpose of the Gov-ernment fleet, constructed in war time, was to ensure Canada against a shortage of shipping, excessive rates, and to allow against a snortage of a nipping, excessive rates, and to allow, some independence in rate-fixing. Contracts were let after the armidisc, partly to carry important industries through the shake-up that followed it. The mission of the Government fleet loday has changed somewhat. It should now be concentrated in developing new trade opportunities, not in dividing with private lines, business that they handle efficiently and economically. Possibly, the fleet is too large for requirements, and part of it should be disposed of, without in any way detracting from the special service it is established to provide.
